Recitals at Lindsey-Wilson

The People of Columbia Highly Entertained at the Close of a Successful School Year.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR COMING YEAR.

Monday morning marked the closing of another successful year of the Lindsey-Wilson, a school that has gained a very enviable reputation in this part of Kentucky.

The recitals of last week drew immense audiences to the chapel, every body loud in their praise of the pupils who took part.

The first of the series of recitals approaching the close of the Lindsey-Wilson Training School was given Tuesday evening by Miss Cary Rosenfield, who graduated from the music department.

Too much praise cannot be given Miss Rosenfield. She has been a most earnest, painstaking pupil and the result of the faithfulness and wonderful ability in musical lines was that the large audience was treated to four beautiful numbers faultlessly rendered.

The vocal numbers by those who assisted her were most entertaining and won much applause.

Thursday evening Misses Ollie Crockett and Myrtle Sageser, who graduated from the expression department, gave their recitals to a packed house.

Both of these attractive young ladies are very efficient along the lines of their chosen professions and they were encored repeatedly.

They closed their program with a two-character play: "A Fair Encounter," in which both acquitted themselves most favorably.

Although the weather was quite disagreeable Friday evening, a fair sized and appreciative audience heard the recital given by the members of the music class.

The program, consisting of both vocal and instrumental numbers, was rendered without a hitch and showed that the members not only possessed rare talent but that they had received excellent training.

On Saturday evening came the "Evening of Plays" under the direction of Miss Bess Shannon.

This was one of the best and most entertaining recitals ever given from that platform and teacher and pupils alike deserve much praise.

Sunday forenoon Rev. A. R. Kasey, who is a member of the Board of Control, a former pastor of the Methodist Church, here, now of Hopkinsville, preached the baccalaureate sermon before a packed audience. It was a splendid discourse, abounding in helpful thoughts for the young—advice, that if taken profit will follow.

Friends and patrons felt justly proud of the graduation exercises which took place in the chapel Monday morning at 10 o'clock, thus closing the most entertaining commencement week in the history of the school. The vocal quartette, "The Sweetest Flower that Blows" was both appropriate and well rendered. The names of the graduates and their subjects are as follows: "Visions," Thetis Williams; "Ambition," William Ernest Harris; "The Teacher," William Fredrick Rainwater; "The Call of Uncle Sam for Educated Men," Charles Blackmore Diddle; "Advantages of Country Life to the Development of Character," Julian Adair Hodges.

Lack of space forbids due comment on each of these, but so well were they written, delivered and received, that we have asked for a copy of each, and week by week they will appear in this paper.

Miss Ruth Millikin, in her usual charming manner, sang "Tosses," "Good-Bye".

The address by Rev. A. R. Kasey, based on Longfellow's "Excelsors" was among the best things ever given in our town, and the hearty applause gave evidence that it fell on appreciative ears.

Following this Prof. Neilson, in a few well chosen words, presented the diplomas to the class of five and also to Misses Myrtle Sageser and Ollie Crockett, graduates in expression, and Miss Cary Rosenfield, music.

Rev. J. S. Chandler made a short talk on the growth of the school since establishment, ten years ago, and of visions he has of a new boy's dormitory. Both pupils and patrons are saddened over the departure of Prof. Neilson and his estimable wife and best wishes go with them to their new field.

Tribute of Respect.

Whereas, in His infinite wisdom, God saw fit to remove from the daily walks of life our esteemed and beloved brother, Dr. J. H. Grady, who was a member of Columbia Lodge, No. 96, Free and Accepted Masons, and also a member of Columbia Chapter, R. A. M., No. 7, therefore, be it

Resolved, that in the death of this respected citizen and zealous Mason, which occurred at Quincy, Illinois, Tuesday, April 22, 1913, this lodge lost one of its most useful Masons, his son and daughter a kind and devoted father, the country a useful citizen.

2nd, That we, as a lodge tender our heart-felt sympathy to the surviving children and all other relatives, who have sustained a great loss.

3rd, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minute book of this lodge and that a copy each be sent to the son and daughter.

5th, That the fraternity attend his funeral in a body and that each member wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days.

5th, That the Adair County News publish these resolutions.

Blood Poisoned.

About two weeks ago, James, an eight year old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Lyon, Campbellsville, got a splinter stuck in one of his feet. The splinter was removed, but a few days thereafter blood poison set up, and for the last week the lad has been in a very serious condition. While here last Wednesday his father was told over the phone that his son's condition was not improving, and he left for home. It is hoped by friends here that the little fellow will recover, though the father, while talking to a News man, appeared to be very uneasy.

Announcement.

The following announcement appeared in the Times-Democrat, New Orleans. The prospective groom was born and reared in this vicinity, and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Conover. He is a young man of excellent business qualifications, and has had situations from home since he became grown.

An approaching out-of-town wedding of interest here, where both the prospective bride and bridegroom have many friends, is that of Miss Cora Van Zant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Van Zant of McComb City, Miss., to Mr. Robert Boyce Conover of Columbia, Ky., which has been announced by Miss Van Zant's parents to take place in June, in McComb City.

Strayed, from my farm, one sow, would weigh 250 pounds when left home. About half black and half white. I will pay a reward for her return, or information that will lead to recovery.

Dr. E. I. Alper, who is recognized and endorsed by the best citizens of this community as the best oculician ever been here, has returned to our town, and has with him Dr. Jacobstein, of Louisville, who is an expert on the eyes. We think anybody in need of glasses will do well to call on them while they are here. They will give you absolute satisfaction. They are located at Page & Taylor Drug Store.

Mr. Robert Antle, the present school Superintendent of Russell county, Mr. E. M. Cox of Albany and Hon. L. T. Neat, of Adair, announced their candidacy for the State Senate at the court-house last Monday. The district is composed of the counties of Adair, Cumberland, Clinton, Russell and Wayne.

Mrs. J. A. English, this place, received a message Wednesday afternoon stating that her brother, E. L. Harvey, of Dallas, Texas, was dead.

The Hogard Chapel, Sparksville Mission, will be dedicated the 5th Sunday in June. Rev. Hogard will preach the sermon.

It is reported that the pike from here to Campbellsville is in better condition than for several years.

Born, to the wife of Estes Hayes, May 12, a son.

Coming Meeting.

W. G. Montgomery, who is to assist in the revival meeting at the Christian Church beginning the first Sunday in June, is a native of this county, and while he is well known by most of the citizens of Columbia yet but few know him as a preacher or an Evangelist, never having preached in this town. His present home is in Moreland, Ky., where he has been pastor for a number of years and has built up a splendid church and Bible School, second to none in that part of the State. He has done some Evangelistic work in Texas and Oklahoma and different parts of this state and the Southwest. He is a speaker of strength, eloquence and close reasoner. He uses large charts to illustrate most of his sermons, which attracts, at once, both the eye and ear. We trust that the people of Columbia will give him a good hearing from the start, and I feel sure those who hear him once will hear him again. Miss Mayme Depp, of Glasgow, who will lead the chorus, will be here Friday evening preceding the meeting and hopes to meet the singers of all the churches that helped in the meeting when she was here before, and also all the new ones that will help in singing. "Christian Gospel Hymns" will be used in the meeting which is a splendid book for revival meetings. It is one of Charles Reigh Scovel's favorite productions. We ask an interest in the prayers of all the people of the town in behalf of the meeting, that many souls may be saved and the lukewarm members revived and the Christian people of all denominations edified.

Surprise Dinner.

At the home and Mrs. T. J. Bryant, Thursday, May 15, 1913, in honor of Mrs. Bryant's sixty-second birthday. It was quite a surprise as the secret had not been fully revealed until the neighbors began to arrive with well-filled baskets, and when the noon hour was announced the table groaned under its load of the finest eatables that the good ladies of the community could prepare. She was the recipient of many nice presents, and the day was a most enjoyable one. When the parting hour arrived, all joined in wishing Mrs. Bryant many more returns. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Bryant, Mesdames. M. E. Bolin, E. L. McKinley, Edmon Bryant, Mont Conover; Misses Addie McKinley, Etta and Lula Bryant, Grace and Ruth Montgomery, Annie Reeves and Bessie Conover; Messrs. Albert Bryant, Love Willis, Marvin and Lee Conover.

THE END OF RAINBOW.

A Play Given at the Court-House Last Wednesday Evening by High School Pupils.

The Auditorium Filled to its Capacity.

The residents of Columbia and vicinity, and many visitors were highly entertained at the court-house last Wednesday evening by pupils of the Columbia High School.

It was a play, "At the End of the Rainbow," and twenty characters were represented, young ladies and young gentlemen of the school, all of whom acquitted themselves in a manner that would have done credit to those who have often appeared upon the stage. There were some fine acting, and the perfect manner in which the play was rendered was certainly a credit to the school.

There were so many characters, to give each performer credit due, would take up too much space, hence we will not particularize, but will state, that as a whole, it was one of the most enjoyable entertainments ever pulled off in Columbia.

It required one hour and thirty minutes to render the play, perfect attention being given by the immense audience. Applause after applause frequently came which greatly stimulated the players.

The teachers who drilled the class deserve praise for the perfect manner in which each actor and each actress did his or her part.

The following is a synopsis of the play:

Act I. Phyllis and "Imp" at their studies—Robert's story of his client's troubles—The bride and groom—Jane sees things—Nell comes to the rescue of Theta Phi—Molly becomes a maid—Dick employs a butler—Jane alarms the butler—"Hawkins" makes love—Louise plays with Jack—Phyllis wins Douglas.

II. The substitution of papers—The plot to steal the packet—Louise deceives Robert—Douglas visits Phyllis clandestinely—Louise secures the packet—The "Imp" makes a discovery—Marion's sacrifice—I sought the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

III. The foot ball game—Ted is hurt—A player's lament—Robert's suspicions are aroused—Molly is jealous—Louise is exposed—Phyllis and Douglas—We'll hold on to the homestead—Robert and Marion find the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

Prominent Lady Dead.

Mrs. Victoria Garnett, a highly respected lady, died this morning, aged 69 years. A more extended notice will appear later.

We have just read an extract of a speech delivered by Mr. Melvin A. Traylor, Vice President of the National Stock Yards National Bank, National Stock Yards, Ill. "Beefsteak and the Banker" was the subject chosen by Mr. Traylor, and the idea conveyed was that cattle were becoming so scarce throughout the entire country that it required a good sum of money to buy a beefsteak. The speech was full of good suggestions, looking to better conditions—cheaper meat in the United States. Mr. Traylor is a native of Adair county, a young man of ability, one who has gone to the front.

Mr. S. M. Bryant, a former citizen of Adair county, but who now lives in Coal City, Ind., had the misfortune to lose his residence and all its contents Sunday afternoon May 11th, by fire. Loss, $1,600. Mr. Bryant writes the News that since the fire he has been thinking a great deal about returning to old Kentucky.

The ladies of the Baptist church will serve ice cream cones at the Fair Grounds to-day (Wednesday) Field Day.

Remember that Field Day exercises will be pulled off at the Fair Grounds this (Wednesday) afternoon.

Last Wednesday afternoon lightning struck a large oak tree between the Lindsey-Wilson and Dr. S. P. Miller's residence, setting it afire, and it was burning an hour or two after the electrical storm was over.

Mr. C. S. Jones Dead.

Last Sunday morning the subject of this notice died at home of his son in Cumberland county. He was seventy-eight years old, known to a great many people in Adair county. Mr. J. W. Jones, who lives at Glenville, was his son and Mr. E. H. Hughes, cashier of First National Bank, his nephew.

He was a gentleman of a jovial disposition, and will be missed by many relatives and friends.

He was buried at Glasgow.

A Pointer For Retail Houses.

The trade current that has been settling steadily in the direction of the big mail order houses can now be diverted toward the small merchant. The parcel post allows each individual storekeeper to develop a mail order business within his own district at a lower postal rate than any one outside of it can ship goods to customers within it. By adopting the same advertising methods which the mail order houses have used for their own benefit and profit in the past and organizing an efficient shipping department the small merchant is now enabled to build up a profitable trade in a greatly widened field.

The parcel post is educating buyers to know that stores nearer home can serve them just as reasonable and far more quickly and satisfactorily than the mail order house.—Maysville Bulletin.

Mr. W. R. Myers is now sole proprietor of the automobile line between Columbia and Campbellsville, he having purchased the machines, owned by the company, last Saturday. We are glad to state that an agreement was reached, and believe that Mr. Myers will be benefitted financially by the transaction. We certainly hope he will have no further opposition. There is not business for two lines, and as Mr. Myers has the mail contract, he should have a clear field.

The ice cream and strawberry supper given by the ladies of the Baptist Church, at the court-house, last Wednesday evening, was a decided success. The fee was only ten cents for cake and cream, and the receipts were right at twenty dollars. Besides enjoying the refreshments, the social feature of the occasion was delightful, and when the closing out hour came the promoters went home feeling that they had been well paid for their time.

The Columbia District Conference of the Methodist Church will meet at Elkhorn, Taylor county, June 3rd, 9 a. m. Will be in session three days, and it is hoped that every preacher in the district will be present and as many lay members as possible.

The lightning which struck an Oak tree in the vicinity of the home of Mrs. Grover Grissom, last Wednesday, killed for her a hen and a brood of chickens, the latter almost large enough to fry. This is the first time we ever reported chickens killed by lightning.

Circuit Court.

The May term of the Adair circuit court opened Monday morning. Judge J. C. Carter arrived promptly, and by the noon hour he had completed his instructions to the grand jury, which is composed of twelve good men. In delivering his instructions, the Judge took up all the crimes known to the law, urging the grand jury to indict in every instance where the proof was sufficient to sustain the charge. The Jury retired to its room and it is believed will do its duty. It is the duty of all good citizens who know of crimes having been committed to furnish the grand jury with the information.

A Wonder.

Mr. Hudson Conover, one of our best farmers, and strictly reliable, reports that he has a Bronze turkey hen that began laying the 17th of last November and is still producing eggs at the average turkey rate. Up to this date she has 127 eggs to her record. The first hatch, under a chicken hen, was in February and they are good size. He has 53 young ones and the number of eggs yet to hatch is between 50 and 100.

By examination of the Secretary's book of the Antioch Sunday school, it is found that during the seven weeks next preceding the first term of our school of vocal music taught by Rev. I. M. Grimsly, the average attendance of Sunday School was 32 5-7, and the average number of chapters read from the Bible per week was 159 3-7, while at the seven meetings of the Sunday School during the first, second and third terms of our music school the average attendance of our Sunday School was 68 4-7, and the average number of chapters read per week was 206 5-7 showing the average attendance, while the music school was in session to be more than double that of the seven meetings preceding the music school and the average number of chapters read by the school from the Bible per week increased nearly one-fourth. This shows what good singing will do for Sunday School work.

Should Keep Name in Papers.

No business man in any town should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name mentioned somewhere in its columns. This applies to all kinds of business, general stores, dry goods stores, groceries, furniture dealers, professional men and in fact, all classes of business men. This does not mean that you shall have a whole or over a quarter of a page ad in every issue, but that your name and business should be mentioned if you do not use more than a two-line space. A stranger coming to town and picking up a newspaper should be able to tell just what business is represented in a town by looking at the business mentioned in the paper. This is the best possible town advertising. The man who does not advertise his business does an injustice to himself and his town. He is a man who expects the paper to do most of the boasting of his town. The life of any town depends upon the live, wide-awake and liberal business men in it.—Eustis Lake, Fla., Region.

Startled the Monarch.

On the first consignment of seidlitz powers in the capital of Delhi, the monarch became deeply interested in the accounts of the refreshing draught. A box was brought to the king in full court, and the interpreter explained to his majesty how it should be used.

Into a goblet he put the contents of 12 blue papers, and, having added water, the king drank it off. This was the alkali, and the royal countenance expressed no signs of satisfaction. It was then explained that in the combination of the two powders lay the luxury, and the 12 white powders were quickly dissolved and as eagerly swallowed by his majesty.

With a wild shriek that will be remembered while Delhi is numbered the kingdoms, the monarch rose, staggered, exploded, and, in his full agonies, screamed "Hold me down!", then rushing from the throne, fell prostrate on the floor.

There he lay during the long continued effervescence of the compound, spurring, and believing himself in the agonies of death—a melancholy and humiliating proof that kings are mortals.

The County Candidate.

People, behold the candidate. He cometh forth like a flower in the early morning, sweet, refreshing and entertaining; he retires at the end of the campaign, tired, dusty, quiet and busted.

In the early part of his campaign, his friends fill him up with water, hope and the general atmosphere. Thus early in the campaign, he swelleth up like a toad, he walketh abroad in the land like he owned the earth, and as though all things were his'n.

He smiles upon all men and woman kind, and sloppeth over with good humor and pleasant jokes. He kisseth the children and scatters microbes among the innocent babies of the country.

Privately speaking he cheweth cloves when he meeteth a preacher, and as he converseth with him in pious tones, he standeth to the leeward and curbeth his breath with a strong bite, talks of the fallacy of infant baptism to one, advocates immersion to another, and approves close communion to all.

He slappeth a man on the back in love and friendship, shakes the hand of the pretty woman and begs the support of both. He goeth home late at night to his weary wife and with beery breath, he hiketh forth without breakfast saying: "One of my strong supports is down in town and I must needs see him before he getteth away."

He is gone but a short time, but long enough to have his leg pulled and the dead-beat made happy. He giveth liberally to the church, he contributed to the man whose house is burned, he bestoweth alms, he signeth a note for a friend, he sendeth a small keg hither and a large keg thither, he yielded up his substance with apparent alacrity, he sitteth in the amen corner at church, grunts with the brethren, and sings 'Amazing Grace,' as dolefully as if he was attending a funeral in the Mississippi swamps. In one neighborhood he is a Methodist; in another a Baptist, in another a Christian; in another a Catholic; in another a sinner. He walketh through the corn and tobacco fields, sitteth on the fence, he talketh of the corn, wheat and tobacco, he sitteth on a log in the woods, and speaks of the wonderful growth of the forests and the richness of the land.

He tells secrets to nearly every body he meets and talks of his opponents and tells the voters of the short comings of his opponents, but impresses upon the importance of keeping it a secret.

This goes on from the day he announces himself a candidate until the close of the election.

After the election, with a downcast countenance, he goeth back of the barn away out in the field, where nobody can see him, and there he kicketh himself and teareth his hair, and throweth his hat up against the wall, and calleth himself bad names, jumps and kicks and goes on until he wearies himself, offers up a prayer and asks the Lord to forgive him for the many lies he has told during the campaign, and promises never again to run for office.

He then goeth back to the house, kisses his wife and children and begins life anew.—Ex.

Our Railways and Others.

The United States has 52,000 more miles railway than all Europe. This excess would reach twice about the world.

Our railroads carry a little less freight than those of Europe, but roll up more than twice as many ton-miles. In 1912 the ton-mile record in America was 267,288,000,000; of all Europe 117,347,000,000.

American railroads receive 20 per cent. more freight revenue than European, the ton-mile rate being much lower. Passenger revenue is 20 per cent. less; the total slightly greater.

The railway property of the world as a whole is not very profitable. Much of it is built for political or military reason. The United States, Germany, Canada, Japan and British India have the most profitable railways. In Italy the net revenue is only 1.77 per cent. of the capital; in Denmark 1.33. The average for the world is less than 4 per cent.

The costliest railways are the British capitalized at about $275,000 a mile. The cheapest in Europe are those of Russia, about $80,000, and Hungary, about $69,000; those of the United States are about $79,000 or $60,043 a mile according to Prof. Adams, who deducts railway stock and bonds owned by roads from total capitalization.

American railways killed in 1912 270 passengers, 2,553 train hands and 5,541 others, European railways killed 554 passengers, following figures in some cases much less recent, or more than twice as many per mile; 2,607 employees and 4,465 others. Tramps and trespassers bring our total per mile rather higher. Russia, with similar tramp conditions, has much the highest European death-list.

Wanted—A True Friend.

I am the horse that brings the groceries to your door throughout the year.

In the hottest days of summer I bring you cooling ice.

In the coldest days of winter I bring you welcome coal and wood.

I am doing all I can to make your home life comfortable.

Often I have to pull through roads that are deep with slime or rough with the frozen clods.

Again and again: I am left to stand on the street after my days work is done and I am hungry, until my driver is ready to take me to the stable.

Do you wonder that I long for the blue grass region of Kentucky, where the meadowlark's a singing up against the sky so blue?

Don't you want to be a better to me?—George F. Paul.

AN UNPUBLISHED NOVEL.

Burnaby's Handwriting Was So Bad It Could Not Be Read.

It was stated at the time of Colonel Burnaby's death that he had left behind him the manuscript of a novel for which there was considerable competition among the publishers.

This is quite true. The manuscript, a bulky parcel, was handed to me with discretionary power either to publish it myself or to use it in connection with the proposed biography.

Here a singular and, as it finally proved, a fatal obstacle presented itself. Familiar for many years with Burnaby's handwriting, I could not after diligent endeavor make out more than a sentence here and there on the crowded page of manuscript.

Burnaby's writing was, possibly with the exception of Dean Stanley's, the worst I ever saw. It looked as if before sitting down to write a letter he had pulled a twig out of the hedge, mixed a little blacking and then gone ahead.

He wrote the whole of his "Ride to Khiva" and his "Ride on Horseback Through Asia Minor" with his own hand. But before they reached the printer they were fairly written out by a copyist.

The hapless man used to make out as much as he could, then leave blanks for filling up which he had to seek the assistance of the author. Sometimes there were more blanks in a page than words.

Despairing of making anything of the manuscript of the novel, it was submitted to a publisher, who turned upon it his most skillful decipherist. Neither head nor tail could be made of the manuscript, and the intention of publishing the novel was consequently abandoned.—Sir H. W. Lucy in Cornhill Magazine.

CEMETERY OF SUICIDES.

The Dreary Plot in Which Monte Carlo Buries Its Victims.

Matilda Betham-Edwards in her book "In the Heart of the Vosges" advises all visitors to Monte Carlo to go to the suicides' cemetery before those other places for which Monte Carlo is famous. She describes the small inclosure, walled in and having a gate of open ironwork, always locked.

"Here, in close proximity to garden rubbish," she says, "broken bottles and other refuse rest the suicides of Monte Carlo, buried by the parish gravedigger, without funeral and without any kind of religious ceremony. Each grave is marked by an upright bit of wood, somewhat larger than that by which gardeners mark their seeds, and on which is painted a number, nothing more. Apart from these are stakes driven into the ground which mark as yet unappropriated spots. The indescribable dreariness of the scene is heightened by two monumental stones garlanded with wreaths and surrounded by flowers. The first records the memory of a young artisan and was raised by his fellow workmen; the second commemorates brotherly and sisterly affection. Both suicides were driven to self murder by play.

"The remainder are mere numbers. There are poor gamblers as well as rich, and it is only or chiefly the poor ones who are put into the ground here. The bodies of rich folks' relatives, if identified, are immediately removed. Many suicides are buried at Nice and Mentone, but the larger proportion further off still."

Paris Postage Stamp Exchange.

"A curb market in Paris" was written on a picture postcard received from that city by a Wall Street broker. It showed an open space thronged with men, women and boys, many of whom held books and portfolios. A letter by the same mail explained that this was the "postage stamp exchange," where dealers and collectors assembled once every month "to do business and to regulate prices." "Here one may find schoolboys, great lawyers, society women, shrewd traders, writers, merchants and men of all professions exchanging, buying and showing stamps, and, although there is no organization, all seem to follow unwritten laws, and the gathering is as interesting to look upon as that stock market in your city which has no roof over its head."—New York Tribune.

Hindu Weddings and Burials.

The expenses of a Hindu wedding come upon the bride's father, and they are so great that a family sometimes is ruined or impoverished for many years by the marriage of a daughter. The next most costly affair to the Hindu is the burial services. Should the head of the family escape bankruptcy when his daughter is married the eldest son is almost sure to be ruined when he buries his father.

Bound to Please Her.

"I've tried for ten years to please my wife," said the married man, "and I've never yet succeeded." "Impossible!" ejaculated his friend. "No, I don't think it is," said the married man. "I'm going to shoot myself."—Satire.

Sure It Was Safe.

"You say that your airship is absolutely safe," said the investigator. "Now, how can you make that statement?" "We haven't been able to get it to leave the ground," replied the inventor.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

AN EYE FOR BUSINESS.

The Way Disraeli "Put One Over" on Publisher Colburn.

When the Hon. Mr. Ward wrote his novel "Tremaine" he was fearful of acknowledging himself the author until its fate should have been ascertained. He accordingly, the better to preserve his incognito, sent the manuscript copy by the wife of his attorney to Mr. Colburn. The work, although accepted, was not considered likely to pay extremely well, and consequently a trifling sum was given for it. Contrary, however, to Mr. Colburn's expectations, it ran to three editions.
The ingenious author of "Vivian Grey," then twenty-two years old, having heard of the circumstances, determined to use it to advantage, and accordingly, having arranged his work for publication, he proceeded to find out the honorable gentleman's fair messenger. This he quickly effected and upon a promise of giving her £20 induced her to be the bearer of his novel to the same publisher.

The woman was instantly recognized by Mr. Colburn as the same person who brought him "Tremaine," and, recollecting the great sale of that novel, he leaped at the manuscript presented to him with the utmost eagerness. It was quickly read and a handsome sum given for the copyright. A short time, however, enabled Mr. Colburn to find out his error, but too late to remedy himself. The work was not successful, and a considerable sum was lost by its publication.

TRAPPING AN ERMINE.

One of the Reasons Why the Prized
Fur Is So Costly.

"This stole of imperial ermine is worth $1,000," said the dealer. "Dear?
Nix. Just consider how the animals comprised in it were caught!"
"In the first place, they were caught in a winter of extreme cold, for it is only in such a winter that the weasel, or ermine, turns from tawny to snow white. In normal winters the ermine only turns to a greenish white, like this $400 greenish white stole here."

"In the second place, the ermines were caught young, for when fully developed their coats are coarse and stiff, as in this $250 stole, and to catch them young the tongue trap must be used.
Any other trap would tear the delicate fur."

"The tongue trap is a knife, an ordinary hunting knife, smeared with grease, that the hunter lays in the snow. The little ermine sees the blade, which it mistakes for ice. Ice it loves to lick, and so it licks the knife blade and is caught fast, its tongue, in that zero weather, frozen to the steel."
"Yes, sir, when you see a stole like this don't begrudge a good price for it, for every ermine in it was tongue trapped in subzero weather—a mighty slow and painful hand process."—New York Tribune.

The Blanket Tree.

Blankets grow on trees in Ecuador, and, while the idea of an all wood fresh from the forest bed covering might give insomnia and backache to the child of civilization who likes to snuggle comfortably under several layers of down and wool, the natives find it all right, as in fact it is.

When an Ecuador Indian wants a blanket he hunts up a demajagua tree and cuts from it a five or six foot section of the peculiarly soft, thick bark.
This is dampened and beaten until the flexibility of the sheet is much increased. The rough gray exterior is next peeled off, and the sheet dried in the sun. The result is a blanket, soft, light and fairly warm, of an attractive cream color. It may be rolled into a compact bundle without hurt and with ordinary usage will last for several years.—Harper's.

Butterflies That Live on Fish.

The butterfly was blue and transparent. As through blue glass its tiny heart could be seen beating inside its body, and the professor read a newspaper article through its lovely blue wings. "This," he said, "is the pteropoda, a Mediterranean butterfly. It eats fish. On its tongue are rows of pointed hooks. They serve as teeth.
This beautiful creature would turn up its nose at a garden of roses and lilies, but it would feast ecstatically upon a putrid eel. Now and then a pteropoda is found on the Florida or the California coast. It is only abundant, though, in the Mediterranean."

Ancient and Modern.

Mr. Choate, the well known American diplomatist, was being shown over a very old English parish church.
Pointing out an oak screen, the rector informed his visitor that it was "centuries old." "And this paneling on the door?" inquired Mr. Choate, much interested. "Oh," replied the rector,
"that is quite modern! It was put up only forty years before the discovery of America, you know!"—London Globe.

Buttons Barred.

"Our collection today, my dear brethren," said the rector, "is for the clothing fund. At the same time, may I earnestly impress upon you that, though the collection is for the clothing fund, it is not necessary to contribute buttons?"

A Pretty Tribute.

When Miss Genevieve Clark,
daughter of Speaker Champ, Clark, was about to sail on a pleasure trip to Europe, she was asked by a representative of the New York American: "What is your ideal of a man?" Miss Clark replied, "My father." And when asked, "Why?" she answered:
"It's because he is so intensely humane: because he has such a sure vision; because he knows people so well and is kind. Nobody in the world has a kinder heart combined with a better understanding of men than my daddy.
He has always been my 'pal' and all I know has been made real through him. His judgment of men is amazingly accurate and his sympathy is big and broad."

That was a pretty tribute.
Probably there are many daughters who find their ideal in their father, and it is well for society that some of the loving opinions find a place in public prints. It is safe to say that among all the high tributes to his fine qualities, Speaker Clark will treasure none as he does the one paid him by his brilliant daughter.

First Wife His Nurse.

Putting aside all past differences, which caused her to divorce Prof. Harry Thurston Peck, who for more than a quarter of a century held the chair of ancient languages at Columbia University, Mrs. Cornelia Dawbarn Peck has assumed complete charge of her former husband, now a hopeless invalid. No hope for his recovery is entertained by the physicians, who assert that the former professor is suffering from softening of the brain.

Mrs. Peck, however, believes she can cure him and will make the attempt. His attendants have noticed that in her presence he appears better contented than in the hands of nurses or physicians. They are now at her home in Sound Beach, Conn.

The case is regarded as one of the most unusual in recent history. Several years ago Prof. Peck fell in love with Miss Elizabeth E. DuBois, a teacher in a New York school. He was divorced by his first wife who secured a large financial settlement from the professor. His second wife is without funds and for this reason, when Prof. Peck became ill, the first Mrs. Peck came to the aid of her former husband and his second wife.

From the time Prof. Peck became ill his first wife bore the larger proportion of the hospital bill. She asserts there is a perfect understanding between herself and the second Mrs. Peck, and that she hopes to nurse her former husband back to health.
The second wife declares she has no fear that her husband's affections will be transferred back to number one.

Murder Mystery.

Dissatisfied with the halting progress made by the detectives in the search for the strangler of 14-year-old Mary Phagan, whose mutilated body was found in the basement of a factory at Atlanta, Ga., state officials have placed private detectives on the case to work independently of the Pink-men are being held under suspicion, Lee M. Frank, superintendent of the factory, and Newton Lee, a negro night watchman.

Lee has been "sweated," but detectives have been unable to force any sort of a confession from him. Certain admissions, however, lead to the belief that he has some direct or indirect

THE ADAIR COUNTY NEWS

Published Every Wednesday

BY THE

Adair County News Company.

(INCORPORATED.)

CHAS. S. HARRIS EDITOR.

Democratic newspaper devoted to the interest of the City of Columbia and the people of Adair and adjacent counties.

Entered at the Columbia Post-office as second class mail matter.

WED. MAY 21, 1913.

We have called attention to the importance of selecting men of ability, who are able and willing to dig deep into the conditions that confront the people of this State as our representatives in the next General Assembly. As time moves on, and as we learn more and more of the troubles that exist and the ones that will certainly follow unless a remedy is provided, we are more earnestly concerned in selecting thoroughly qualified men to represent our Legislative and Senatorial districts. Too much interest is at stake; too many weighty propositions will confront the next Legislature to allow any one but a competent man to represent either of the districts in which this county forms a part. It has been said that "the price of liberty is eternal vigilance," and since government is established to promote and protect the best interests of the people it should be administered by those most capable of performing this arduous duty. The making of wholesome laws, their repeal or modification, is no trifling matter. In a representative government too often misrepresentation exists and to be plain, as we see it, this is no time for mistakes to be made. The General Assembly empowered to make our laws, to provide revenue for the maintenance of the State's institutions, and to fix salaries for the offices created by its powers should be made of seasoned timber—men who have successful business experience, broad vision, progressive but conservative as well. Kentucky annually collects and expends more than $7,000,000. On account of careless management of her fiscal affairs an annual deficit has been accumulating for several years, and now amounts to more than $1,500,000. Our Representative and Senator must take part in disposing of this indebtedness and providing a remedy against its recurrence if the people are honestly and ably represented, if not a tale of woe will follow for Kentuckians find no pleasure in pauperizing their State. County pride, district pride and love for advancement, ought to stir up the people in this part of the State to measure up to any other part of Kentucky in selecting men of worth as their representatives. We take the following interesting statement from the report of the Kentucky State Tax Commission, which was filed with the Governor on February 12, 1913, and present it to the readers of the News that they may have a more comprehensive understanding of the magnitude of the propositions which the next General Assembly must consider. The total amount expended by the State for all purposes during the year 1912 was $7,734,222.71 leaving a debt owing by the State of $1,500,847.15. The deficit is rapidly piling up. The present sources of revenue are not sufficient to pay the obligations of the State. The deficit increases more and more each year. Unless the expenditures are cut down or the amount of revenue collected increased, the State, within the next few years, will be unable to pay its obligations and its public institutions will be seriously hampered in their work and great harm will result to the State. The largest drain on the revenues of the State is the Normal Schools, State Universities and Common Schools. There is expended for these purposes alone each year about $3,591,435.84. The next largest item expended by the State is in caring for the insane of the State. There is annually expended for this purpose about $666,375.97. The next largest item is expended by the State in the prosecution of criminals. This costs annually about $261,431.96. The annual appropriations now paid out of the general expenditure fund amount to $441,250. There is paid out of the general expenditure fund in salaries for the various State officials $322,454.55. The above items constitute the largest claims on the State's revenues. Gentlemen of the Democratic faith is not the above sufficient to impress you that a competent, hard-working, firm man should be selected as our representative from this legislative district and also one from our senatorial district to aid in a proper solution of growing difficulties. Kentucky's prosperity may be advanced or seriously crippled by the acts of the next House of Representatives and Senators. Safest way, select the right men for our nominees and the best citizens of the district will elect them regardless of party ties or former prejudices.

It has been known for some time that Mr. C. G. Jeffries, of the Knifley precinct, was a candidate for Jailer of Adair county, subject to the Democratic voters at the August primary. His formal announcement appears in the News to-day, and he is now going over the county meeting his friends. Mr. Jeffries comes from a Democratic family and he has been an active worker for the party long before he reached his majority. When quite a young man he was the nominee of the party for Assessor. At that time the county was largely Republican and he led the ticket at the November election, but was defeated by a small majority. He would be very grateful if the Democrats would nominate him in this contest. He feels sure that he could win the final race; and should he be the winner in the primary he promises to be active until the November election. He desires to return his thanks to the many who have expressed a willingness to support him, and he will endeavor to see every Democratic voter in the county between this time and the primary election. He is equipped for the contest, and should he be called to fill the position, he promises to be a watchful official.

Mr. E. G. Hardwick is announced in this issue of News a Republican candidate for Surveyor of Adair county, subject to the action of the voters of said county at the August primary. The position is not a new one to Mr. Hardwick, he having heretofore filled it, making a very satisfactory officer. Only a few days ago he made up his mind to offer for the position, and he takes this method of letting the voters know of his candidacy. He expects to canvass the county, and he feels sure that his friends will be active, and will greatly aid in spreading his candidacy, and in a very short time the voters of the county will know that he is the race. He will be under lasting obligations to all who will aid him with their votes in this contest.

Hon. L. T. Neat, of Adair county, announces his candidacy for the State Senate in this issue of the News. The district is composed of the counties of Adair, Cumberland, Clinton, Wayne and Russell, and he is subject to the action of the Republican voters in said district. Mr. Neat has served in the Lower House of the Kentucky Legislature, hence legislating would not be new business to him; in fact he feels that he is better qualified to represent the district to-day than any other time since he entered politics. Besides, he has the advantage of the personal acquaintance of many politicians in the State, the character of men who usually sit in legislative bodies. No one man can get bills passed. It requires the assistance of friends, men who will stand to you when their services are needed, and he feels sure that in the introduction and passing of local measures, his friends who may be in the Senate would stand to him. It will take some little time to canvass the district, but a candidate who wants to go to the Senate should be willing to put in time sufficient to see all the voters. This Mr. Neat will do, and hereby promises that should he be nominated and elected he would be faithful to the trust—thank his party for the honor conferred, and will endeavor to make a diligent Senator for the entire people of the district.

Former Congressman J. M. Richardson has been nominated by the President for postmaster at Glasgow. Mr. Richardson is also editor of the Glasgow Times. John B. Grimes was also nominated at the same time for the Harrodsburg postoffice. Both appointments will likely be confirmed by the Senate in the next few days.

Senator Ollie James' maiden speech in the Senate last week touched the electric button of Democratic approval throughout the country. It was a message that tingled with Democratic

The call made by the Chairman of the Republican committee for a meeting in the court house Monday drew a large crowd. Several speeches were made, all pleading for a return of the Progressive—to forget the past, and come back to their political home. Three or four who claim to have supported the Progressive ticket last fall made addresses and pledged anew their devotion to the old party that they left last year. The resolutions will be published next week.

Senator Ollie James' maiden speech in the Senate last week touched the electric button of Democratic approval throughout the country. It was a message that tingled with Democratic doctrine—the masses and not the privileged classes should have the blessing of good government. His argument was in support of the Underwood Bill, and plainly demanded by the Baltimore Convention. Senator James is forging to the front as a great leader, as fast as any man in the entire country. Democrats everywhere appreciate his great powers as a

Mr. Chas. Allen sang "Tell Mother I'll be There." Betsy Buster and Carl Clayton sang "Don't Grieve Your Mother." The choir, led by C. H. Allen, rendered several songs in a pleasing manner.

How to be Certain of Curing Constipation

Prejudice is a hard thing to overcome, but where health is at stake and the opinion of thousands of reliable people differs from yours, prejudice then becomes your menace and you ought to lay it aside. This is said in the interest of people suffering from chronic constipation, and it is worthy of their attention.

In the opinion of legions of reliable American people the most stubborn constipation imaginable can be cured by a brief use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You may not have heard of it before, but do not doubt its merits on that account, or because it has not been blatantly advertised. It has sold very successfully on word of mouth recommendation. Parents are giving it to their children today who were given it by their parents, and it has been truthfully said that more druggists use it personally in their families than any other laxative.

Letters recently received from M. E. Myers, Morrison, Tenn., and Ada Hamersmith, 118 W. Chestnut St., Louisville, Ky., are but a few of thousands showing the esteem in which Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is held. It is mild, gentle, non-gripping—not violent, like salts or cathartics. It cures gradually and pleasantly so that in time nature again does its own work without outside aid. Constipated people owe it to themselves to use this grand bowel specific.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. E. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

Better Roads Make a Better Country.

One of the first things asked by those seeking homes in a new country is, "What about the roads? Are they good or bad? To them good roads are a drawing card while inferior roads scare them away. The man looking for a farm and home is also looking for good road means money to the farmer who is going to do a business that amounts to anything. No wonder he hesitates about locating in a place where steep grades make it possible to haul only a half load or the mud makes hauling two or three times as costly as it should be.

The most desirable citizen is more than a good business farmer. He is interested in the schools, the church and the social life of the community. Progressive people like to be able to go to the town and city. Business and pleasure demand it. The man looking for a home takes all these things into consideration. He is looking for good roads and wants good roads. Good farming calls for cheap transportation, and up-to-date people demand schools and churches that are easily accessible. Therefore it is not strange that enterprising citizens ask about the condition of the roads before locating in a new country. The road plays an important factor in the history of every man's life. Experience, therefore, teaches that everywhere and under all conditions better roads makes a better country.—Ex.

THE PASTOR SPRINTED.

He Made a Good Run in Record Time With Plenty of Reason.

One of the traditional stories of the town of Fairfield, Conn., recounts a wild dash from the pulpit made by a worthy and beloved pastor of the Episcopal flock, Dr. Labaree.

It was on a Sunday more than a hundred years ago. The service had been read, the prayers said, the hymns sung, and the parson began his sermon. As he proceeded his gestures became very energetic. He brought his right hand down with great force. Then he turned pale, cleared the pulpit stairs at a bound, dashed out of the church door and ran toward the pond a short distance away.

The congregation followed in bewildered pursuit and saw their venerable pastor with flying robe rush into the water until it came to his neck. Then, turning round, he faced his astonished audience and said:

"Dearly beloved brethren, I am not crazy, as no doubt many of you think, but yesterday at the drug store I bought a bottle of nitric acid and carelessly left it in my pocket today.

"My last gesture broke the bottle. I knew the suffering the acid would cause when it penetrated my clothing and rushed for the water to save myself pain."

He drew several pieces of glass from his pocket in witness of the tale. Then he dismissed the company and hurried home.

FROZEN WITH HEAT.

A Remarkable Process Known as the Caloric Paradox.

Freezing is usually associated with cold, but water can be frozen on a red-hot plate. This pretty experiment has rightly been called the caloric paradox.

If a drop of water is placed on a red-hot or white hot metal plate it does not suddenly flash into steam under the influence of the great heat. It does not even boil. It simply evaporates quietly and slowly as it rolls about the plate. Now, suppose that the drop on the plate is a volatile liquid like sulphurous acid. It will evaporate, and this evaporation will produce cold. Let a drop of water fall in the sulphurous acid drop and it will be frozen in spite of the heat.

M. Boutigny thus froze water on a white hot platinum capsule. Faraday carried this remarkable experiment even further. Pouring some ether and solidified carbonic acid gas on a red-hot platinum capsule, he formed a spheroidal mass which evaporated very slowly. He then brought some mercury into contact with it, and this was instantly frozen. Now, mercury requires a temperature of 40 degrees below zero to solidify it, and here it was frozen on red-hot platinum.

No "Deadhead" Trip.

One of the most famous of American shipping lines in the palm days of our marine was the Cope line, which ran between Philadelphia and Liverpool, says the author of "Memoirs of Charles H. Cramp." By this line John Randolph of Roanoke determined to go to Russia when he had been appointed minister to that country by President Jackson. Entering the office of the company in Philadelphia, he said to a clerk in his usual grandiloquent manner:

"Sir, I wish to see Thomas P. Cope." He was shown to Mr. Cope's office. "I am John Randolph of Roanoke," he said. "I wish to take passage to Liverpool in one of your ships." If he expected to be tendered a pass he was grievously disappointed. "I am Thomas Cope," replied the head of the line. "If thee goes aboard the ship and selects thy stateroom and will pay $150 thee may go."

An Ants' Sewing Circle.

A party of German naturalists recently returned from Ceylon have reported the existence of a species of ant that has been observed in the act of sewing two leaves together for the purpose of forming a nest. This report confirms the observations of the English naturalist Ridley, made in 1890. They saw a row of the insects pulling the edges of leaves together, then others trimming and fitting the edges, and finally the completion of the work by still other ants which fastened the edges with a silky thread yielded by larvae of the same species the workers carried in their mandibles. It is said that the sewing ants pass the thread-giving larvae like shuttles through holes in the edges of the leaves.—Boston Post.

For the Boy's Sake.

A Roseville man stopped smoking for the sake of his young son. "If I smoke I shall set him a bad example," he argued and gave up tobacco with many sighs of regret. For three years he has done without the weed. The other night he found a box of little cigars in the boy's coat pocket, a well smoked briar pipe in the youngster's tool box down cellar and a pack of cigarettes in the woodshed.—Newark News.

His Experience.

"In order to succeed in any line of business," said the great merchant, who was given to the habit of moralizing, "one must begin at the bottom." "I tried that," replied the young man with the fringed trousers, "and now I'm on my uppers."—Exchange.

Reckless Dissipation.

His Mother—Hiram, ain't you 'shamed o' yourself settin' up dill half past 8 playin' solitaire? What you get your taste for gamblin' I don't know.—Life.

To My Dog.

Some people think dogs ain't got no sense
And that they don't know what's what,
But from the 'quaintance I've had with them
I've found dogs know a lot.

Trouble is, folks don't seem to understand
What a dog is trying to say
When he wags his tail he means
"I'm glad to see you."

And when he growls he means
"go away."

An' when it comes to takin' care of his health

He knows just what to do,
For he never eats nor sleeps too much

And he don't drink nor smoke nor chew.

Now you just kinda watch your dog

An' I'm sure you'll learn a lesson,
Be kind to him, and you will find

His love will be a blessin'.

He'll stick to you through thick and thin,

When you're down he'll share your sorrow,

An' wag his tail as if to say
"Cheer up, good luck to-morrow."

Now, when I die, if I've the luck

To reach the golden gate,
And I see a sign, "No dogs allowed,"

By gosh, I'd hesitate.

For if my old pup was standing 'round,

An' 'ud look me in the face,
I think I'd have to take a chance

An' try the other place.

—(Billy B. Van in the National Humane Review.)

Tired-out, weak, nervous men and women would feel ambitious, energetic and full of life and always have a good appetite, if they would do the sensible thing for health—take Electric Bitters. Nothing better for the stomach, liver or kidneys. Thousands say they owe their lives to this wonderful home remedy. Mrs. O. Rhine-vault, of Vestal Center, N. Y., says: "I regard Electric Bitters as one of the greatest of gifts. I can never forget what it has done for me." Get a bottle yourself and see what a difference it will make in your health. Just May Time.

In the gladsome days and marvelous nights of winsome May, when earth is robed in fairy garlands of budding leaf and bursting blossoms, vibrating with mystic music of winged choir, fragrant with myriad breaths of waking flowers, pulsating with new life, new hope and new love, the immortal part of mortal man delights to leave this work-a-day worlds and dwell for a brief period in the realm of dream—the land of sylvan gods, of nymphs and elves—the land of youth and love where the arrows of the blind god are darting everywhere.

Dr. Mary Walker the famous woman who has so long worn the male garb is anxious to be appointed the commissioner of pensions. She served over a year in the Civil War as an army doctor and she draws a pension of $20 a month by special act of congress on account of her unusual services. She was one of the original suffragists, but she is strongly opposed to some of the methods that are being adopted to boost the women cause. She called on Secretary Bryan and urged that the American suffragettes who are smashing things in England should be brought to the country, tried and properly punished, and she thought no militant suffragist from other countries should be allowed to land here. Mr. Bryan listened to her courteously but of course will take no such action.

Health a Factor in Success.

The largest factor contributing to a man's success is undoubtedly health. It has been observed that a man is seldom sick when his bowels are regular—he is never well when they are constipated. For constipation you will find nothing quite so good as Chamberlain's Tablets. They not only move the bowels but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion. They are sold by Paull Drug Co. Ad.

Dr. Robert Bell, the famous English physician, in a recent article attributes cancer mainly to the eating of too much meat. He calculates that there are now 25,000,000 people in the world who are afflicted with the disease. He says that all the known "cures" of cancer have failed and that from his extensive experience he is convinced that the best that can be done in such cases is to reform the diet and pay strict attention to keeping the digestive and intestinal system in a thoroughly sanitary condition.

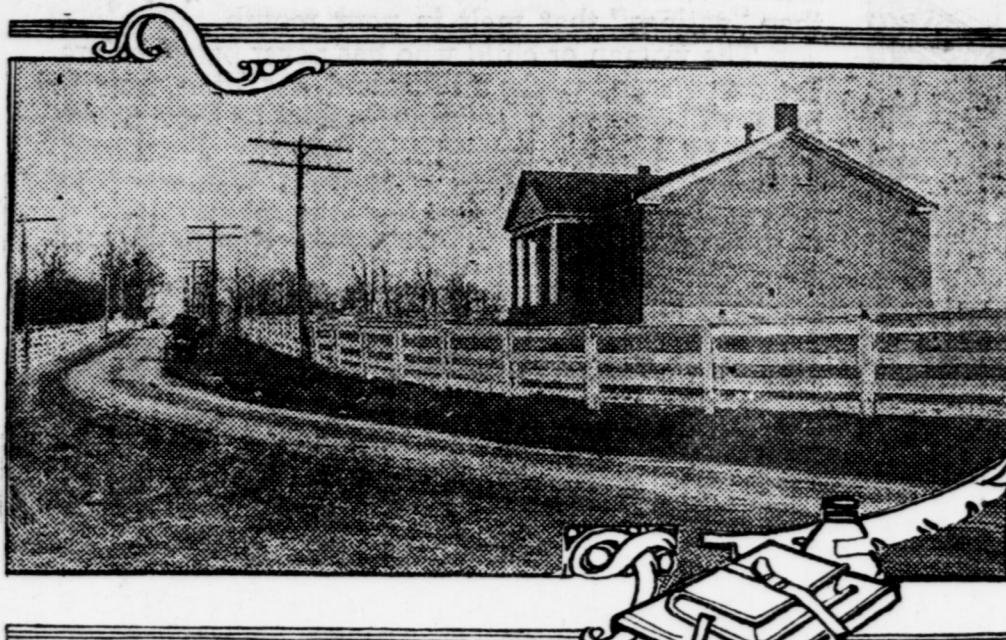

Rheumatism Quickly Cured.

"My sister's husband had an attack of rheumatism in his arm," writes a well-known resident of Newton, Iowa. "I gave him a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment which he applied to his arm and on the next morning the rheumatism was gone." For chronic muscular rheumatism you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Liniment. Sold by Paull Drug Co. Ad.

Kentucky's Consolidated Schools

CHILDREN are very much like their parents. They do enjoy a good time with congenial people of their own age. In any one room schoolhouse, no matter how fine it may be, the chances are that there will be very few children in the upper grades. These older children crave companionship and often drop out of school for no other reason. In fact, it is not at all unusual to overhear conversations like the following:

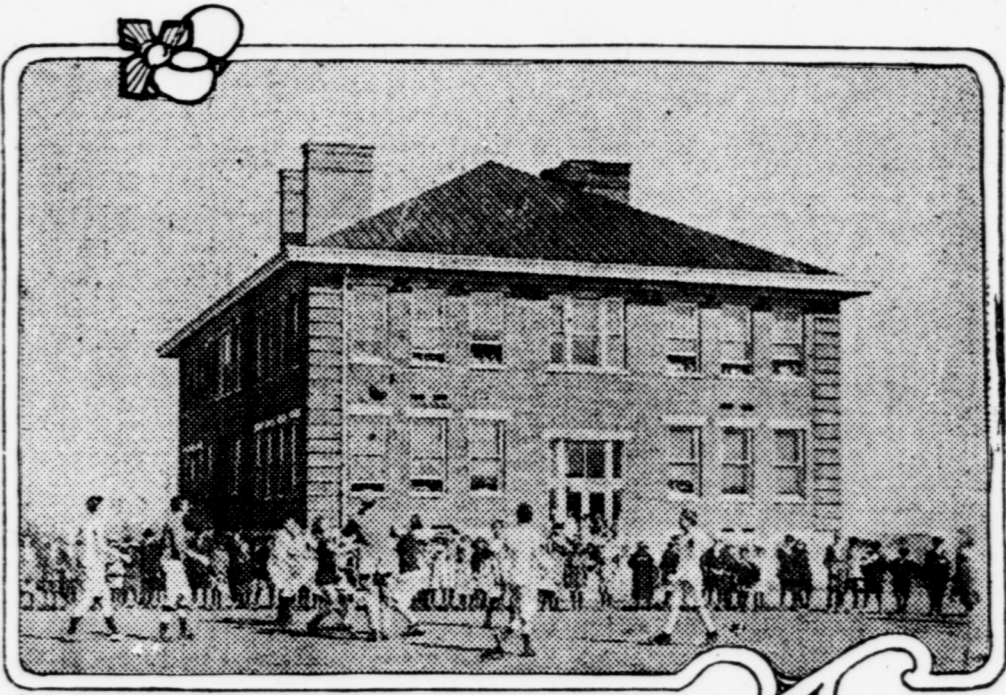

"What's the matter? You ain't going to stop school?" "Yes; I'm goin' to stop. I'm past fifteen." "But you ain't through school yet?" "No; I know I ain't, but I'm tired to death of goin' to school every day with a big bunch of little kids. I don't like the boys to see me walkin' with all those youngsters taggin' along the road with me. I'm goin' to stop tomorrow."

If parents would only question their children of school age carefully they would soon gain their individual viewpoint. The child's viewpoint may not be well taken; but, nevertheless, it is his or her viewpoint and therefore has value. It is always good policy to SUGAR COAT EVERY EDUCATIONAL PILL. The small school can never afford the pleasure and the exhilaration which large numbers of children of the same school age can give. The big consolidated schools are particularly strong in this hold upon the older pupils.

How Can They Get to School?

WHenever any one speaks of the consolidation of several schools the above question is at once asked, as though it settled the whole matter for all time to come. There is an almost universal feeling against consolidation in many rural districts. There is a feeling that the children should get to school as their parents and grandparents did.

In several sections where consolidated schools have been established in this state (and there are many such sections at this writing) the pupils go back and forth to school on the interurban cars. Naturally, this plan is a very great success. In other sections where there are no trolley lines wagons are used. Some of these wagons are built to accommodate as many as twenty children, so that the cost of transportation per child is not great after the original investment in the wagon is taken out.

"Too expensive," some one says. Well, that depends on what you mean by expensive. It may cost a little more money to get the children to and from school, but there will be fewer colds and coughs to contend with. There will be fewer children behind in their studies because they could not get to school on account of the weather. It is at least worth looking into, especially as some neighborhoods in the state are using transportation with great success and satisfaction to the general public.

One of the few inland "light houses" in the world is located in the Arizona desert. This "lighthouse" consists of a tall pole on the top of which a lantern is hoisted every night so that the light may be seen for miles. The water at this point comes from a well which is the only source of water for a distance of 30 to 45 miles in either direction.

INTEREST TO CANDIDATES For SUPERINTENDENT.

Editor News:—

1. The Act of 1912 requires all candidates for the office of County Superintendent, except those who are now in office, to hold a State Certificate issued by the State Board of Examiners, which does not expire during the anticipated term of office.

2 The Applicant may qualify by taking a special examination to be held in the Department of Education, Frankfort, May 30 and 31, and June 27 and 28. This examination is in all respects equivalent to the examination for the regular State Certificate.

3 The applicant may qualify by taking the regular State Examination, June 20 and 21, either in the county in which the applicant resides or in Frankfort, before the State Board of examiners.

4 Applicants may qualify after nominations are made in the August primary. However, there is only one chance after the Primary, and that is in the regular State Examination in August, and the candidate can not take this examination, except in his home county, where he expects to run for office, or in Frankfort in the Department of Education.

5 Incumbents in office, under the law, are qualified by virtue of their past tenure of office, to run for re-election without further examination.

6 The 1912 law prescribes that all candidates who are not incumbents in office, must either have a certificate as herein described, or take this special examination, which, is in all respects, the equivalent of a State Certificate. Therefore, all such candidates, must have taught two years, the time required by law to secure a State Certificate. (Ky. Stat., Carroll, Sec. 4503; Ky. School Law, Hamlett, 1912, Sec. 79.)

Barksdale Hamlett,
State Superintendent.

government to co-operate, Kentucky would receive $19,800,000. It is listed as one of the States now permitted to issue bonds for public works. In a brief explanation of his plan, Senator Bourne, as chairman of the joint committee on Federal aid in the construction of postroads, asserted that the country would get vast returns on the investment, says:

"My plan contemplates that the billion-dollar construction fund shall be apportioned among the States upon the basis of area, population, assessed valuation and road mileage, and that the several states shall deposit in the United States treasury their fifty-year 4 per cent., bonds for the amount due them, and the government loan the States the par value thereof for road construction, the government raising its funds by the sale of its fifty-year non-taxable 3 per cent., bonds.

METHOD OF FINANCING.

By crediting each State every year with the excess one per cent., interest paid by the State to the government over what the government pays on its bonds, and allowing 3 per cent., interest, compounded annually on said excess one per cent., a sinking fund is established from which the government pays off the bonds at the end of fifty years, and the State is relieved of the payment of principal on its bonds.

der this plan, pay to each State annually for road maintenance an amount equal to 2 per cent., of the amount of bonds on deposit, provided the State expends a like amount for the same purpose.

"The plan also provides for team work between the States and the Federal government, but avoids subservience of the State to any Federal bureau or department. It suggests the establishment of a national school of highway and bridge engineering here in Washington, so as to create a supply of trained specialists from whom the States could draw for State and district engineers."

Russell Creek Items.

Some of our farmers have been plowing corn for the past week. Lots of replanting on account of the cold snap a few weeks ago. Wheat is not looking so well in this neighborhood.

Some of our boys are setting tobacco. Lots of beds are a failure and plants are scarce.

Messrs. Sam Smith and Ike Curry were in Greensburg last week, and purchased a buggy, surrey, sewing machine and a cultivator. It pays a farmer to go to Greensburg to purchase his farming implements.

Mr. H. T. and Dofe Smith were at the Sandlick Springs last week. The latter going to get water for his health.

Miss Ruth Squires was visiting relatives and friends at Milltown last week.

Mr. Bob Hood and Miss Laura Andrew attended Mother's Day at Creelsboro last Sunday.

Mr. Sam Smith and wife were visiting at Magaha last week.

Mr. Owen Wilson sold one span of mules to Mr. Eugene Grasham for $325; also, Mr. Wilson bought one saddle horse from Bill Hancock, of Coburg, for $150; and then Mr. Wilson purchased himself a fine buggy. Look out girls you may get to take a pleasant drive.

Mr. Jesse White, of Columbia, was through this neighborhood last week selling his good churns. I will say that no one will make a mistake in getting one of his churns for they are a grand thing.

Bro. Johnson filled his appointment at this place last Sunday, and preached an excellent sermon. We would be glad to have him come again.

Mr. Jim Sherley's letter in the News was very much enjoyed by your scribe. Mr. Sherley is one of Milltown's best young men, and is very much admired by the young people of this precinct. Write again Jim.

While unbooming a log last week, the boom pole broke and hit John Hood in the mouth and knocked out some teeth and cut his lip that three stitches were taken. Mr. Hood is getting along fine at this writing.
